

Prof. Timothy Gilfoyle

A Pickpocket's Tale: George Appo and the Progressive Origins of Eugenics

Tuesday, June 27, 2017

6:00 PM to 8:00 PM

---

Arts and Letters Hall, Room 103
2315 N. Kenmore Ave.
DePaul University

The DePaul University and Facing History and Ourselves Collaboration welcomes Professor Timothy Gilfoyle, past president of the Urban History Association and winner of the Allan Nevins and Kenneth Jackson prizes, to the sixth annual Summer Institute Evening Speaker Event. A renowned scholar, teacher, and lecturer, Professor Gilfoyle will help the audience understand the origins of eugenics in the underworld of nineteenth century New York City.

Following the speaker event, Prof. Gilfoyle will sign copies of his book, A Pickpocket's Tale: The Underworld of Nineteenth-Century New York.

We are pleased to be able to offer educators 2 CPDU's for attending this event.

Register online <http://tinyurl.com/EveningSpeaker2017> or contact Rawan Alfuraih at collaboration@depaul.edu to reserve your spot today!

People make choices. Choices make history.

The DePaul University and Facing History and Ourselves Collaboration is generously supported by the Donna and Jack Greenberg Charitable Trust.